The ball has dropped, and you're still lying there with a hangover and a house to clean -- hbow pathetic. Not because you let yourself go, but because you think the party's over. You want a real resolution? You want a happy New Year? Then you have to have the will and wisdom to take it. We here at MF have already made up our minds to eat this year alive, by getting more sex, lifting more weight, and having more good times than we have a right to. Here are 50 ways we're gonna do it starting now -- now do it with us.

Use the Opposite Sex

At wingwomen.com, you can hire an attractive female companion to accompany you out on the town. This is the same idea as using your buddies as wingmen -- these girls have your back and will talk you up at the local bar to that hottie with a tottie -- except that it apparently works.
